SENIOR CLASS

"The world is so full of a number of things
I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings."

As Stevenson said, this the Seniors of "48 found to be true. Their one ambition was to make their last year at Central High full of entertainment, as well as learning, that would stay with them in memory the rest of their lives.

A four-day tour of Washington was the chief thought of every Senior's plans, and all activities were planned towards making this trip possible. The class presented three one-act plays: a comedy, centered around the antics of a fifteen-year-old boy; the second, a blood-thirsty murder; and the third, a romantic comedy. Along with a lot of fun, the Seniors developed their powers of salesmanship in selling magazines and Christmas cards.

The annual Christmas dance was a highlight in the social life of every Senior.

The four years spent at Central have given each of us may different experiences, and graduation marks the end of the best year of them all. With commencement comes the joy of a job well done; yet there is sorrow as this Senior class bids farewell to the pleasant associations with the underclassmen, to a group of understanding teachers, and to a school where everyone is given equal opportunity.

REFLECTIONS

When this school term comes to an end,
And thoughts of the present with the past do blend,
As we think over the things we've done,
We recall the profits as well as the fun.

Whether in game, in song, or dance
Central can shine when given a chance;
Their sportsmanship is hard to beat;
They're cheerful even in defeat.

Memories to cherish through the years
Sometimes in laughter, sometimes in tears,
These we'll talk over wherever we go,
Whenever we meet with those who know.

The classes we skipped, they overlooked
The announcements calling for missing books
The day-dreaming we did in study hall
Until we were hit by a flying spit ball.

A mixture of fun and difficult times-
As learning history and English rhymes,
Chemistry formulas drilled in our heads,
Pecking on typewriters with fingers like lead.

We stood in line at the office door
For excuses, paper or pencils galore;
Then reached our classes on the run
Without our books but not our gum.

Through the years as we shall go,
As we do now, then we shall know,
As from these halls we soon depart,
Central is held dear in all our hearts.

The Brighter Side

"No man is as lucky as he appears or as unlucky as he thinks he is"--or so some renowned author once wrote. This timely quotation gives me, the class optimist, the courage to stand here and try to chase away some of the dark clouds the pessimist must have left, with his bleak recital of our woes and misfortunes. Things just can't be that bad!

First and foremost--we are graduating, aren't we? That one brilliant accomplishment should shed enough sunlight upon these exalted Seniors to brighten even the gloomiest countenance. But just in case it doesn't, let us go on--and shall we say--count our blessings?

What if we didn't win all our basketball and football games this year? Wasn't it grand fun? And we're willing to bet you'll never see another group of athletes who carried their many scars of battle so proudly.

Did I understand our friend, the pessimist, to say--in effect--that Senior privileges are extinct--a thing of the past? We choose to look upon this as our contribution to the democratic ideal--to think we gave up our privileges to make for equality. And who dares to ask whether this sacrifice was made voluntarily or not? Let him speak now or forever hold his peace!

Certainly no class could wish for a more understanding, helpful, faculty than we have here at Central. Why, they have rarely, if ever, forced us to do things we didn't wish to. I say that with feet firmly planted, head up, and fists clenched, quite prepared for the onslaught of those who violently disagree. Furthermore, their sense of humor has never been exhausted--and believe me, that has helped to keep us--and them--going.

What's all the fuss about Mr. Shuster being able to leave school any time he pleases with no one's permission? Why not turn our liabilities into assets? Did our worthy pessimist never hear the old saying that "When the cat's away, the mice can play"?

Seriously, though, our Senior Class is proud to have had a small part in putting out "The Passing Parade", the first annual Central has had for several years, and to have contributed sweat, blood, and tears to the worthy cause of getting the "Centrilian" out on time.

We've had much success with the plays presented this year, to say nothing of all the fun we had in practicing for them. They brought us valuable experience, fun, and money for our Washington trip. Who could ask more?

Yes, in looking back over our high school days, the Class of '48 can be thankful for many things--for all we've learned, although it may not show on the surface, for not having failed in anything we really set out to do, and most of all for the friends we've made and the fun we've had.

So, I, the optimist, close this little speech with a firm conviction that the good has far outweighed the bad and a fervent hope that it will be so for all the future Senior Classes of Central.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

We the class of 1948 of Central High School being of sound mind and good judgment do hereby make public our Last Will and Testament.

To our deserving parents we give our thanks and appreciation for the sacrifices they have made to keep us in school.

To the incoming Seniors we leave our Senior dignity, good looks, personality, ability to get along with the teachers and all our Senior privileges we did not have.

To Mr. Shuster we would like to leave a new Studebaker with a speedometer which does not register over 50 miles per hour.

To Mr. Katz we bequeath our thanks and gratitude for being a wonderful sponsor.

To Miss Gleason we leave the incoming Senior English Class. May they understand Macbeth better than we did.

We leave to Miss Wolfe all the unreturned library books and used play books.

We leave to Mrs. Lockhart the broken typewriters, unfinished budgets and lost bookkeeping books.

To Warren Downey, Rosa Nicely leaves all her unfinished arguments with Mr. Shuster.

Sylvia Nicely leaves the salesmanship of the Echo to anyone who is willing to accept the responsibility.

Doris Colvin leaves to Jimmy Smith her ability to stay out of trouble.

To Joyce Fisher, Virginia Fix wills her freckles.

To James Wright, Eugene Walker leaves his athletic prowess.

Bette Deeds and Raymond Nicholas will their romantic attraction to Frances Seay and Charles Persinger.

To Mr. Hastings we leave the worn out basketball uniforms and lost physical education equipment.

We leave to Miss Akers the incoming Spanish, biology and physical education classes, may she keep that happy-go-lucky air under the strain.

To Mrs. Broughman we leave the history we've made in the past four years.

To Miss Michie we leave the much used Chemistry books and the lab equipment.

We leave to Miss Blackwell all the late paper material, used stencils and the other troubles of the Centrilian and the Annual.

June Berry leaves her ability to be the best student in the class to Dan Nicely.

Shirley Tolly wills her good humor and acting ability to anyone who is willing to take it.

Ellen Keyser leaves her stubbornness to Betty Dame.

Betty June Whiteside leaves her big mouth to Sheila Donnally so hers will be twice as big.

Jane Spangler leaves her quietness to Mary Sue Francis.

Naomi Downey leaves her two-timing to anybody that can get by with it better than she.

To John Henry Faidley, Eugene Jumphries leaves his black, curly hair and good looks.

Jimmy Ferrell leaves to Bobby Nuckels his ability to play ping-pong.

To Danny Humphries, Hayden Curtis leaves his title of biggest loafer.

Nancy Nicely leaves her carefree air and enjoyment of life to Lila McCulley.

Charlotte Dew, Ellen Martin, and Mary Frances Davis leave the privilege of talking as much as they please to Patty Ann Grove, Betty Dame and Priscilla Downey.

To Nadeen Nicely, Nannie Bell Fisher leaves her bashfulness.

Leona Humphries leaves her lack of height to Ruth Cary.

To the incoming Freshman Class we leave Central. May they enjoy it as we have.

Patsy Donnally leaves to the presidents of S. C. A. and F. T. V. the unfinished business, unpaid dues and the many other troubles of both organizations.

Enough said, we do hereby constitute the said principal, the sole executor of this, our Last Will and Testament.

In witness where of, we the class of '48 set our hand and seal this the 4th day of June, One thousand nine hundred and forty eight.

CLASS FLOWER

How fitting it is that we, the very wisest, brightest, noblest, and altogether the most promising and brilliant of all High School Classes--the most wonderful association of boys and girls that were ever brought together--have chosen the rose as our class flower.

There are many reasons why we have chosen the rose as our class flower. First, because of its beauty, and richness that appeal to our artistic sense; second, because it is the universal symbol of love.

The beauty of the rose has caused such states as the District of Columbia, Iowa, Georgia, New York and North Dakota to choose it for their state flower.

Roses have a commercial as well as an aesthetic value. In southern France and Bulgaria, they are cultivated for oils that form the base for many fine perfumes. The finest of these oils is the famous "Attar of Roses", the price of which ranges from fifteen to three hundred dollars per ounce. It is no wonder that fine perfumes are so expensive.

With the rose as our class flower, we leave behind the blessings of our class as an ever-abiding influence and source of inspiration to those who come after us.

COMPLAINT DEPARTMENT

At last! The time has come for me to stand upon this stage and express my opinion of the school from which I am about to have this misfortune of graduating.

I am just going to tell you a few little minor things that this school needs to have changed.

Why do you know that the radiators around here only get hot in one spot and that is the spot you're leaning against.

The water fountains, or at least that's what they call them, only give one kind of water (and that's wet), and with it they always manage to give you a shower.

Do you know they make you go in the library and make you sit down and read a book about love instead of making love to the guy across from you. (Jeepers! this is Leap Year).

I'll tell you exactly what Central needs. A system of buttons to make the children do less work. Why, do you know it's simply a disgrace how the Physical Ed. class has to push up and pull down chairs.

Those buses! What they need are convertible buses (with love seats) so the kids can enjoy the fresh country air.

Mr. Shuster always wants to know what's going on everywhere in Central. Why he's got little boxes in every room so he can listen on other people's conversations.

His office is a perfect picture of any Hollywood office, with planted flowers growing in the window, a mail box on the outside of his door, a nice soft, revolving chair and to top it all off, he gets his hat and coat and leaves when he pleases (without asking anyone).

But do we have all this? Why no indeedie! If we're caught leaving this school before three, we're called into the office to explain why we left. Why, its a disgrace! Mr. Shuster, himself skips Civics Class at least three times a week.

When we were Freshmen, we watched with envious eyes the privileges of Seniors. But now we're Seniors, but where are the privileges? Do we get to go to the store at lunch time? You guessed it, we don't! Can we drink Coca Colas? Oh no, it's milk for growing children. But look at us, do we really look like we need milk?

Gee when will the teachers around here ever learn that we are our mothers little angels and never get into trouble.

After four long years I've wanted to express my opinions of Central and it's teachers. We'll I've expressed them in the above sentences. Gee, but I feel better and not at all nervous---------,
For of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these: "It might have been!"

JUNIOR CLASS

The Juniors of Central! That's us! Everybody knows we are here!

In September we began thinking and planning for the trip to Washington in our Senior year. Next, we were all excited over ordering Class Rings--- and looking at invitations for our Senior Year.

All in all, I guess our plans were comparable to those of the Junior Classes of the past.

Now we are waiting for the next year--hopeful of accomplishing miracles, learning much, and having a wonderful year.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

Well, what do you know! Yes, the Sophomore Class was the first to make itself known this year. We had the first social function of the year--the Sophomore Dance. We worked hard and believe everybody enjoyed it.

There are fifty-six of us this year, although there were times when you would not have thought so because of the quietness around--then again--we overran the halls, annoyed the faculty, and were anything but quiet.

Don't try to make way for the Sophomores--they will make way for themselves.

"--and gladly would he learn and gladly teach"--Chaucer

The Future Teachers Club was organized at Central in the fall of 1945 "to acquaint those interested in teaching with the advantages and disadvantages of teaching."

Under the sole leadership of Patsy Dorrally, the club is now one of the most active in the school.

A Variety Show, "Corn's A Poppin", was presented in January by the club to make money for several trips which the group made.

The future teacher's pledge is our aim: We believe that in order to become a good teacher we must have physical vitality, mental vigor, moral discrimination, wholesome personality, helpfulness, knowledge, and [illegible] ship.

RAOMA JUNE BERRY

"She touched every phase of school activity and touched nothing she did not adorn."

PATRICIA DIANE DONNALLY

"Her charming looks a cottage might adorn
Sweet as the primrose peeps beneath the thorn."

DANIEL GILES NICELY

"He speaketh not; and yet
there lies
A conversation in his eyes."

JAMES EDWARD SMITH

"That which ordinary men are Fit for, I am qualified in;
And the best of me is diligence."

BETTE VIRGINIA DEEDS

"Worth, courage, humor, and intellect
These, indeed, are her birthright."

JUDITH INEZ BERRY

"She doeth little kindnesses,
Which most leave undone or despise;
For naught that sets one heart at ease,
And giveth happiness or peace,
Is low-esteemed in her eyes."
